

JULY PRODUCT REVIEW

For those of you that have trailers , I have found a really neat quick release tie that is a great help, even in cross ties or any other tie situation that you want a break away tie down. It is a halter hitch with a quick release on it that you can attach to your halter and the other end to the hitch. I use it in my washpit where I like to have a breakaway , just in case. They are not expensive and come in handy. No damage to either the hitch or the halter if it does break away. It can also be reset. Great item!

“ This new product can help your horse escape from a fire or other dangerous situation. The Ultracite® Escape Mechanism was developed and constructed to take advantage of a horse's natural instinct and power when confronted by danger. The cost of the device is minimal when compared to the cost of the loss of your companion. Reusable releases can be used again and again.”

You can buy it at www.ultracite.com

They also have a quick release stall door latch which is great for those horses that are stalled and may need to get out in case of an emergency and there are no humans around. With pressure exerted against the door, the horse can escape under his own power without the aid of a human. WELL worth the investment!
