

APRIL 2006 PRODUCT REVIEW HOOFIX EMERGENCY TRAIL BOOTS

As long as I have been trail riding, there have been horses on the trail that have lost a shoe...the worse thing is, there has not been a solution before now.

I found this trail boot, a “carry on” boot that is very well made, is easy to take along on a trail ride, lightweight and compact yet strong enough to last on a rugged trail ride.

If your horse loses a shoe, this is an easy fix and will be the perfect solution to get you back home or to the trailer without any further injury to his foot.

I rode through water, mud and rough terrain for many hours and it never moved. It protected her hoof and never rubbed or caused any soreness. I took it off and put it back on to see how easy it was and the first time I did, it took less than 5 minutes to get it off , put it on and get back on to ride. Simple and easy, the way I like it!

It is made of a heavy duty material that protects and cushions the hoof. It fastens very securely with velcro and does not move around or slide. The velcro holds it in place and the non slip, thick rubber sole keeps it secure. It comes with a hoof pick and pastern band to protect that area even more. It is always good to be prepared for any emergency and this is one way to prevent a bad situation from becoming worse.
