

MAY 2007 PRODUCT REVIEW

THE FURminator

This time of year, there is hair flying everywhere and my farm is no different. I have many dogs that are shedding as well. An NCHN member led me to the FURminator and I did some research, then got one. BEST thing I ever did!

It looks like a regular comb type tool, for shedding, but once you use it, you will quickly realize it is not “regular”. I started out using a shedding blade as well as a grooming block to rid my horse of as much hair as I could, just knowing that there was no more hair left to be removed. Then I started down her back with the FURminator and was amazed at what was coming off her back...I got a grocery bag full of hair, dirt and grime.

It doesn't cut or damage the hair, it just removes the undercoat and the best part, is that while removing the undercoat, it also removes dirt, old dandruff and stuff that has been lying on the skin for months.... So that all you have to do is use a finishing brush and whisk it away.

It made her shiny and almost clean looking. It was a few days before she needed deShedding again.

I was so impressed that I got the dog FURminator and was equally as impressed with what it did for my dog's coat. They are slick, clean looking and not shedding at all. I didn't have to brush the dogs for a week...

I have never had a shedding tool that worked as well as this one. There are no sharp cutting parts to wear down so it lasts a long time. Easy to keep clean, just rub it clean and put it back in the holder.

This is one tool that has made brushing the horses a whole lot easier!
